Assurance, Challenge and Improvement in Health and Social Care

It should be noted that this inspection report should not be regarded as a comprehensive review of all strengths and areas for improvement that exist in the service. The findings reported on are those which came to the attention of RQIA during the course of this inspection. The findings contained within this report do not exempt the service from their responsibility for maintaining compliance with legislation, standards and best practice.

1.0 What we look for

2.0 Profile of service

This is a residential care home with 15 beds that provides care for residents under the categories of care detailed in its certificate of registration.

The home is planned for closure with relocation to a new care facility.

4.0 Inspection summary

An unannounced care inspection took place on 3 October 2017 from 10:15 to 13:00 hours.

This inspection was underpinned by The Residential Care Homes Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2005 and the DHSSPS Residential Care Homes Minimum Standards.

This inspection assessed progress with any areas for improvement identified during and since the last care inspection and sought to determine if the home was delivering safe, effective and compassionate care and if the service was well led.

Evidence of good practice was found in relation to staff training, supervision, adult safeguarding and communication between residents and other key stakeholders.

No areas requiring improvement were identified during this inspection. However there were issues of concern identified by staff on how they felt the closure of the home was being managed and the reliance on their good will to help in this transition.

Feedback from residents was all positive about the care provided for and the kindness and support received from staff.

The findings of this report will provide the home with the necessary information to assist them to fulfil their responsibilities, enhance practice and resident experience.

4.1 Inspection outcome

6.3 Inspection findings

6.4 Is care safe?

Avoiding and preventing harm to patients and clients from the care, treatment and support that is intended to help them.

The registered manager confirmed the staffing levels for the home and that these were subject to regular review to ensure the assessed needs of the residents were met. Concerns were raised regarding staffing levels during discussion staff with the proposed date of residents move to the new home. Staff stated that they had received termination of employment notices for the day before the date of this proposed move and as such this was seen as an act of good will on their behalf to accommodate this move the following day. Staff reported that they had agreed to carry out duties after their contract but that ill feeling had been caused on how they felt this was managed.

No concerns were expressed with existing staffing levels from discussions with residents and staff.

An inspection of the duty roster confirmed that it accurately reflected the staff working within the home.

Discussion with the registered manager and staff evidenced that an induction programme was in place for all staff, relevant to their specific roles and responsibilities.

Discussion with staff confirmed that mandatory training and supervision of staff was regularly provided. A schedule for mandatory training and staff supervision was maintained and was inspected.

The registered manager and staff advised that competency and capability assessments were undertaken for any person who is given the responsibility of being in charge of the home for any period in the absence of the manager; records of competency and capability assessments were retained.

The home's recruitment and selection policy and procedure was in line with current legislation and best practice. Discussion with the registered manager advised that staff were recruited in line with Regulation 21 (1) (b), Schedule 2 of The Residential Care Homes Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2005 and that records were retained at the organisation's personnel department.

The registered manager reported that no new members of staff have been recruited to the home, since the previous inspection.

Enhanced AccessNI disclosures were viewed by the registered manager for all staff prior to the commencement of employment.

Arrangements were in place to monitor the registration status of staff with their professional body. Care staff spoken to advised that they were registered with the Northern Ireland Social Care Council (NISCC).

The adult safeguarding policy and procedure in place was consistent with the current regional guidance and included the name of the safeguarding champion, definitions of abuse, types of abuse and indicators, onward referral arrangements, contact information and documentation to be completed. The safeguarding champion and their contact details were readily displayed.

Discussion with staff confirmed that they were aware of the regional guidance (Adult Safeguarding Prevention and Protection in Partnership, July 2015) and a copy was available for staff within the home. Staff were knowledgeable and had a good understanding of adult safeguarding principles. They were also aware of their obligations in relation to raising concerns about poor practice and whistleblowing. An inspection of staff training records confirmed that mandatory adult safeguarding training was provided for all staff.

Discussion with the registered manager, review of accident and incidents notifications and complaints records confirmed that if there were any suspected, alleged or actual incidents of abuse these would be fully and promptly referred to the relevant persons and agencies for investigation in accordance with procedures and legislation.

The registered manager identified that the home did not accommodate any individuals whose assessed needs could not be met.

The registered manager confirmed that no restrictive practices were undertaken within the home and on the day of the inspection none were observed.

The home's infection prevention and control (IPC) policy and procedure was in line with regional guidelines. Staff training records confirmed that all staff had received training in IPC in line with their roles and responsibilities. Discussion with staff established that they were knowledgeable and had understanding of IPC policies and procedures. Inspection of the premises confirmed that there were wash hand basins, adequate supplies of liquid soap, alcohol hand gels and disposable towels wherever care was delivered. Observation of staff practice identified that staff adhered to IPC procedures.

Good standards of hand hygiene were observed to be promoted within the home among residents, staff and visitors. Notices promoting good hand hygiene were displayed throughout the home in both written and pictorial formats.

The registered manager reported that there had been no outbreaks of infection within the last year. Any outbreak would be managed in accordance with home's policy and procedures, reported to the Public Health Agency, the trust and RQIA with appropriate records retained.

The general décor and furnishings throughout the home were tired and dated but fit for purpose. The home itself was clean and tidy, fresh smelling and appropriately heated.

There were no obvious hazards to the health and safety of residents, visitors or staff.

The home had an up to date fire risk assessment in place dated 8 August 2017. The one recommendation made from this was noted to be appropriately addressed.

Inspection of staff training records confirmed that staff completed fire safety training and fire safety drills twice annually. Records were retained of staff who participated and any learning outcomes. Fire safety records identified that fire-fighting equipment, fire alarm systems, emergency lighting and means of escape were checked on a regular and up-to-date basis. Individual residents had a completed Personal Emergency Evacuation Plan (PEEPs) in place.

Areas of good practice

There were examples of good practice found throughout this inspection in relation to staff training, supervision and adult safeguarding.

Areas for improvement

No areas for improvement were identified in respect of this domain during the inspection.

6.5 Is care effective?

The right care, at the right time in the right place with the best outcome

Discussion with the registered manager established that staff in the home responded appropriately to and met the assessed needs of the residents.

The registered manager also advised that care records were maintained in line with the legislation and standards. They included an up to date assessment of needs, life history, risk assessments, care plans and daily/regular statement of health and well-being of the resident. Residents' progress records with identified issues of assessed need had a corresponding recorded statement of care / treatment given with effect(s) of same.

The care records also reflected the multi-professional input into the residents' health and social care needs and were found to be updated regularly to reflect the changing needs of the individual residents. Residents and/or their representatives were encouraged and enabled to be involved in the assessment, care planning and review process, where appropriate.

Discussion with staff confirmed that a person centred approach underpinned practice. This was reflected by staff knowledge and understanding of residents' individual needs.

An individual agreement setting out the terms of residency was in place and appropriately signed.

Records were stored safely and securely in line with data protection.

There were arrangements in place to monitor, audit and review the effectiveness and quality of care delivered to residents at appropriate intervals. These included care record audits and monthly monitoring visits.

The registered manager confirmed that systems were in place to ensure effective communication with residents, their representatives and other key stakeholders. These included pre-admission information, multi-professional team reviews, residents' meetings, staff meetings and staff shift handovers.

Staff confirmed that management operated an open door policy in regard to communication within the home.

Residents spoken with and observation of practice evidenced that staff were able to communicate effectively with residents.

Areas of good practice

There were examples of good practice found throughout this inspection in relation to care records and communication between residents, staff and other key stakeholders.

Areas for improvement

No areas for improvement were identified in respect of this domain during the inspection.

6.6 Is care compassionate?

Patients and clients are treated with dignity and respect and should be fully involved in decisions affecting their treatment, care and support.

The inspector met with all the residents in the home at the time of this inspection. In accordance with their capabilities all residents confirmed that they were happy and content with their life in the home, their relationship with staff, the provision of meals and the provision of activities. Some of the comments made included statements such as;

- “I love it here”
- “The staff are brilliant. They are all so kind and sweet”
- “I will miss this home greatly”
- “I just hope the staff in the home in Garvagh will be like the staff here”

A range of policies and procedures were in place which supported the delivery of compassionate care.

Discussion with residents and staff confirmed that residents’ spiritual and cultural needs, including preferences for end of life, were met within the home.

Discussion with residents and staff confirmed that action was taken to manage any pain and discomfort in a timely and appropriate manner.

Residents and staff confirmed that consent was sought in relation to care and treatment. Discussion with residents and staff along with observation of care practice and social interactions demonstrated that residents were treated with dignity and respect. Staff confirmed their awareness of promoting residents’ rights, independence and dignity and were able to demonstrate how residents’ confidentiality was protected. Staff interactions with residents were found to be polite, friendly, warm and supportive.

Staff confirmed that residents were listened to, valued and communicated with in an appropriate manner. Residents confirmed that their views and opinions were taken into account in all matters affecting them. It was explained how residents have been orientated to the new home, informed of details of this and are being facilitated in choice of bedrooms and décor. This is all good practice and discussion with residents found that such planning around the move brought them great reassurance. However residents did express disappointment and sadness at having to leave the home and its location.

Discussion with residents and observation of practice confirmed that residents’ needs were recognised and responded to in a prompt and courteous manner by staff. An example of this was observed with how staff assisted individual residents with their mid-morning teas.

There were systems in place to ensure that the views and opinions of residents, and or their representatives, were sought and taken into account in all matters affecting them. These included care review meetings, monitoring visits and day to day contact with management.

Residents are consulted with, at least annually, about the quality of care and environment. The findings from the consultation were collated into a summary report which was made available for residents and other interested parties to read, with an action plan as appropriate.

Discussion with residents, staff and observation of practice confirmed that residents were enabled and supported to engage and participate in meaningful activities. Arrangements were in place for residents to maintain links with their friends, families and wider community. For example, on the afternoon of this inspection all the residents were going after their lunch to a planned service in a nearby Church.

Areas of good practice

There were examples of good practice found throughout this inspection in relation to feedback from residents and general observations of care practices and atmosphere in the home.

Areas for improvement

No areas for improvement were identified in respect of this domain during the inspection.

6.7 Is the service well led?

Effective leadership, management and governance which creates a culture focused on the needs and experience of service users in order to deliver safe, effective and compassionate care

The registered manager confirmed that the needs of residents were met in accordance with the home's statement of purpose and the categories of care for which the home was registered with RQIA.

The registered manager explained arrangements how she was managing in the residents' transition to the new home, such as registering with a new GPs, medicine management and care records. This was good practice.

A range of policies and procedures was in place to guide and inform staff.

There was a complaints policy and procedure in place which was in accordance with the legislation and Department of Health (DOH) guidance on complaints handling. Residents and/or their representatives were made aware of how to make a complaint by way of the Residents' Guide and information on same displayed. Discussion with the registered manager confirmed that she was knowledgeable about how to receive and deal with complaints.

Inspection of the complaints records confirmed that arrangements were in place to effectively manage complaints from residents, their representatives or any other interested party. Records of complaints included details of any investigation undertaken, all communication with complainants, the outcome of the complaint and the complainant's level of satisfaction.

Arrangements were in place to share information about complaints and compliments with staff. An audit of complaints was used to identify trends and to enhance service provision.

There was an accident/incident/notifiable events policy and procedure in place which included reporting arrangements to RQIA. An inspection of accidents/incidents/notifiable events confirmed that these were effectively documented and reported to RQIA and other relevant organisations in accordance with the legislation and procedures. A regular audit of accidents and incidents was undertaken and was reviewed as part of the inspection process. Learning from accidents and incidents was disseminated to all relevant parties and action plans developed to improve practice.

There were quality assurance systems in place to drive quality improvement which included regular audits and satisfaction surveys.

A monthly monitoring visit was undertaken as required under Regulation 29 of The Residential Care Homes Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2005; a report was produced and made available for residents, their representatives, staff, trust representatives and RQIA to read. The report of September 2017 was inspected and found to be maintained in informative detail.

Discussion with the registered manager confirmed that information in regard to current best practice guidelines was made available to staff. Staff were provided with mandatory training and additional training opportunities relevant to any specific needs of the residents.

There was a clear organisational structure and all staff were aware of their roles, responsibility and accountability. This was outlined in the home's Statement of Purpose and Residents Guide.

Inspection of the premises confirmed that the RQIA certificate of registration and employer's liability insurance certificate were displayed.

The home had a whistleblowing policy and procedure in place and discussion with staff established that they were knowledgeable regarding this. The registered manager confirmed that staff could also access line management to raise concerns.

Discussion with staff confirmed that there were good working relationships within the home and that management were responsive to suggestions and/or concerns raised.
