5.3 Standard 5: Care Plan - Where appropriate service users receive individual continence promotion and support

Is Care Safe?

Age NI Portaferry provides day care to service users who are independent. If a service user's needs change while they are attending this centre the manager will contact the referrer for a re assessment to ensure this setting can still meet their needs. Continence or intimate care is not provided by staff at this setting. Staff in the setting discuss continence needs with service users during the assessment, care plan and review processes and if they observe any changes. This is to identify need and ensure staff can support the service user in this setting. Staff said they are aware service users like to keep their intimate care needs private therefore as a minimum they assure them they can request products if needed and they can be referred to the continence team if they have any concerns.

Three staff returned inspection questionnaires that reported staff are very satisfied with the training they had received; they are very satisfied with support from the multidisciplinary team; access to equipment; and very satisfied the environment is appropriate to meet service user's needs.

Overall the inspection concluded staff have a proactive approach to ensuring continence needs are met in a safe way in this day care setting.

Is Care Effective?

Review of two service users' files and reading a sample of the policy and procedures in the settings file provided assurance information and guidance is available to staff regarding meeting continence needs and promotion of the same. Discussion concluded staff know how to effectively identify need and the know how to seek guidance if required from procedures, professional literature or other professionals. Training for staff to date had included infection control, manual handling and vulnerable adult training which had ensured staff care for service users safely and effectively.

Four service users responded in questionnaires they feel very satisfied that staff know how to care for them. Three staff responded in inspection questionnaires they are very satisfied they have access to supplies which support service users and access to PPE. Finally staff reported they have sufficient knowledge, skills and experience to support service users who attend the day centre.

The inspection concluded care provided by staff is effective in promoting and supporting continence needs.

Is Care Compassionate?

Observation of the care in this day care setting revealed staff engage with service users regarding activities, outings and day to day news. Observation revealed staff took time to listen to service user's preferences, wishes and feelings which should ensure care is responsive to need.

Three staff reported in the questionnaires that they are very satisfied service users are afforded privacy, dignity and respect at all times; they are encouraged to retain their independence and make choices; they are satisfied they have time to talk to and listen to service users; and the care provided is based on service users' needs and wishes.

Four service users reported in the questionnaire's they are very satisfied their views and opinions are sought regarding the day centre.

5.4 Standard 8: Service Users' Involvement - Service users' views and comments shape the quality of services and facilities provided by the Day Care setting

Is Care Safe?

The inspector observed the staff actively seeking service users' views during their time in day care and incorporating their views and indications of how they feel into practice. This will ensure that choices, issues of concern, complaints are acted on. Records of service user meetings and service user's individual records also indicate personal choice and preferences are encouraged and are recorded.

Four service users completed inspection questionnaires which stated they are very satisfied that they feel safe and secure in the day centre; and the staffing levels are appropriate. One service user commented "I look forward to coming".

Three staff responded in the inspection questionnaires that they were very satisfied with the training they had received which included mandatory training and training relevant to their role with this service user group.

The inspection confirmed staff communicate effectively with service users and use this information to ensure care is safe and responsive to need.

Is Care Effective

The inspector was satisfied there was a range of methods and processes where service users' and their representatives' views are sought and recorded; and the recording includes details of the action taken. Examples of record viewed were day to day communication in day care; meetings with service users; informal and planned discussions with service user representatives and relatives; annual questionnaires.

The inspector observed service user's views being sought which enabled service users to be involved in decisions in the day centre and given opportunities to influence the running of the day care setting on an informal basis. Four inspection questionnaires' returned by service users reported service users feel very satisfied that staff respond to their needs.

The inspection confirmed the care in this setting effectively seeks service user's views, opinions and preferences and this information is used to inform day care delivery.

Is Care Compassionate?

Discussion with the manager; staff and review of records evidenced the service users are listened and responded to by staff, who are knowledgeable about individual service users' communication needs. Observation showed staff speaking to each service user as an individual, giving them time and encouraging communication. This was a person centred approach to communication with service users. Service users said they feel at ease speaking to staff and they feel staff welcome their comments, suggestions and preferences.

Four service users completed questionnaires for this inspection and they stated service users are very satisfied with the care and support they receive; and that their views and opinions are sought regarding the service. One service user stated "staff are very good".

Three staff questionnaire's stated they were very satisfied regarding the following questions: service users are involved in and are given opportunities to influence the running of the centre; systems are in place to seek service users views; management action service users suggestions, issues or complaints; and service users are kept informed regarding any changes. One staff member wrote "I am very happy in my role at Age NI Portaferry. I feel clients receive all the help they need and I feel clients are happy in this resource centre".
