2.0 Inspection summary

An unannounced inspection took place on 24 November 2023 from 9.00 am to 3.15 pm by a care inspector. The inspection sought to determine if the home was delivering safe, effective and compassionate care and if the service was well led.

No areas requiring improvement were identified during this inspection.

Patients were happy to engage with the inspector and share their experiences of living in the home. Patients expressed positive opinions about the home and the care provided. Patients said that staff members were helpful and pleasant in their interactions with them.

Patients who could not verbally communicate were well presented in their appearance and appeared to be comfortable and settled in their surroundings.

RQIA were assured that the delivery of care and service provided in Weavers House Nursing Home was provided in a compassionate manner by staff that knew and understood the needs of the patients.

The findings of this report will provide the manager with the necessary information to improve staff practice and the patients' experience.

3.0 How we inspect

RQIA's inspections form part of our ongoing assessment of the quality of services. Our reports reflect how they were performing at the time of our inspection, highlighting both good practice and any areas for improvement. It is the responsibility of the service provider to ensure compliance with legislation, standards and best practice, and to address any deficits identified during our inspections.

In preparation for this inspection, a range of information about the service was reviewed to help us plan the inspection.

Throughout the inspection patients, relatives, staff and a visiting professional were asked for their opinion on the quality of the care and their experience of living, visiting or working in Weavers House Nursing Home. The daily life within the home was observed and how staff went about their work. A range of documents were examined to determine that effective systems were in place to manage the home.

Questionnaires were provided to give patients and those who visit them the opportunity to contact us after the inspection with their views of the home. A poster was provided for staff detailing how they could complete an on-line questionnaire.

The findings of the inspection were provided to the manager at the conclusion of the inspection.

4.0 What people told us about the service

Patients spoke positively about the care that they received and about their interactions with staff. Patients confirmed that staff treated them with dignity and respect and that they would have no issues in raising any concerns with staff. One patient said, "it's like home to me. It is very good, nice food and everything," while another patient said, "I am very well looked after. I like the atmosphere. It's first class. You get three meals a day. They look after me terribly well. It feels like home." A further patient said, "I am very happy here."

Relatives spoken with were complimentary of the care provided in the home. One relative said, "I have absolutely no concerns. The girls are fantastic and the care is first class" while another relative said, "I am happy with the care. If anything happens they call me. The girls are very good and are taking my relative to the turning on of the Christmas lights."

Staff spoken with said that Weavers House Nursing Home was a good place to work. Staff commented positively about the manager and described her as supportive and approachable. Discussion with the manager and staff confirmed that there were good working relationships between staff and management.

No questionnaires were returned by patients or relatives and no responses were received from the staff online survey.

5.0 The inspection

5.1 What has this service done to meet any areas for improvement identified at or since last inspection?

The last inspection to Weavers House Nursing Home was undertaken on 12 October 2022 by a care inspector; no areas for improvement were identified.

5.2 Inspection findings

5.2.1 Staffing Arrangements

A review of staff selection and recruitment records evidenced that staff members were recruited safely ensuring that pre-employment checks had been completed prior to each staff member commencing in post. Minor shortfalls in record keeping were discussed with the manager who provided assurances that all recruitment files will be reviewed before offers of employment are made.

Staff members, including agency staff, were provided with a comprehensive induction programme to prepare them for providing care to patients. Checks were made to ensure that staff maintained their registrations with the Nursing and Midwifery Council (NMC) and the Northern Ireland Social Care Council (NISCC).

The staff duty rota accurately reflected the staff working in the home on a daily basis. This rota identified the person in charge when the manager was not on duty. Review of records confirmed all of the staff who takes charge of the home in the absence of the manager had completed a competency and capability assessment to be able to do so.

There were systems in place to ensure that staff were trained and supported to do their job. Staff consulted with confirmed that they received regular training in a range of topics such as moving and handling, infection prevention and control (IPC) and fire safety.

Review of staff training records confirmed that all staff members were required to complete adult safeguarding training on an annual basis. Staff members were able to correctly describe their roles and responsibilities regarding adult safeguarding.

Staff said they felt well supported in their role and were satisfied with the level of communication between staff and management. Staff reported good team work and had no concerns regarding the staffing levels.

Patients spoke positively about the care that they received and confirmed that staff attended to them in a timely manner; patients also said that they would have no issue with raising any concerns to staff. It was observed that staff responded to patients' requests for assistance in a prompt, caring and compassionate manner.

5.2.2 Care Delivery and Record Keeping

Staff met at the beginning of each shift to discuss any changes in the needs of the patients. Staff members were knowledgeable of patients' needs, their daily routine, wishes and preferences. Staff confirmed the importance of keeping one another up to date with any changing needs in patients' care throughout the day.

It was observed that staff respected patients' privacy by their actions such as knocking on doors before entering, discussing patients' care in a confidential manner and by offering personal care to patients discreetly. Staff members were observed to be prompt in recognising patients' needs and any early signs of distress, especially in those patients who had difficulty in making their wishes known. Staff members were skilled in communicating with patients; they were respectful, understanding and sensitive to their needs.

Patients who were less able to mobilise required special attention to their skin care. These patients were assisted by staff to change their position regularly. Examination of the recording of repositioning evidenced these were well completed.

Management of wound care was examined. Review of a selection of patient's care records confirmed that wound care was managed in keeping with best practice guidance.

Falls in the home were monitored monthly to enable the manager to identify if any patterns were emerging which in turn could assist the manager in taking actions to prevent further falls from occurring. There was a system in place to ensure that accidents and incidents were notified to patients' next of kin, their care manager and to RQIA, as required.

Review of the management falls evidenced appropriate actions were taken following the fall in keeping with best practice guidance.

At times, some patients may be required to use equipment that can be considered to be restrictive, for example, bed rails. Review of patients' records and discussion with the manager and staff confirmed that the correct procedures were followed if restrictive equipment was used.

Good nutrition and a positive dining experience are important to the health and social wellbeing of patients. Lunch was a pleasant and unhurried experience for the patients. The food served was attractively presented and smelled appetising and portions were generous. A variety of drinks were served with the meal. Patients may need support with meals ranging from simple encouragement to full assistance from staff. Staff attended to patients' dining needs in a caring and compassionate manner while maintaining written records of what patients had to eat and drink, as necessary. Patients spoke positively in relation to the quality of the meals provided.

Some patients may need their diet modified to ensure that they receive adequate nutrition. This may include thickening fluids to aid swallowing and food supplements in addition to meals. Care plans detailing how the patient should be supported with their food and fluid intake were in place to direct staff. Staff told us how they were made aware of patients' nutritional needs to ensure that patients received the right consistency of food and fluids.

Patients' needs were assessed at the time of their admission to the home. Following this initial assessment, care plans should be developed to direct staff on how to meet patients' needs and included any advice or recommendations made by other healthcare professionals. Review of a selection of patient's care records evidenced that care plans had been developed within a timely manner to accurately reflect their assessed needs.

It was noted that records from the residential care home in the same building were available to staff in the nursing home following transfer of patients from one service to the other. Although risk assessments and care plans had been updated to accurately reflect the patients assessed needs, some of the patients care records related to a separate registered service. This was discussed with the manager who agreed to address this with registered nursing staff and monitor compliance through an admission tracker. This will be reviewed at a future care inspection.

Patients' individual likes and preferences were reflected throughout the care records. Care plans were detailed and contained specific information on each patient's care needs and what or who was important to them.

Daily records were kept of how each patient spent their day and the care and support provided by staff. The outcome of visits from and consultations with any healthcare professional was also recorded.

5.2.3 Management of the Environment and Infection Prevention and Control

Examination of the home's environment evidenced the home was warm and comfortable. Residents' bedrooms were personalised with items important to them. Bedrooms and communal areas were decorated to a high standard, suitably furnished, clean and tidy. There was evidence of ongoing painting and decorating of some patient bedrooms. Staff told us that furniture was replaced when required and any refurbishment is addressed in a timely manner.

Fire safety measures were in place to ensure that patients, staff and visitors to the home were safe. Staff members were aware of their training in these areas and how to respond to any concerns or risks. A fire risk assessment had been completed on 5 October 2023. The fire risk assessor did not identify any follow up actions.

There were laminated posters displayed throughout the home to remind staff of good hand washing procedures and the correct method for applying and removing of PPE. There was an adequate supply of PPE and hand sanitisers were always readily available throughout the home.

Discussion with staff confirmed that training on IPC measures and the use of PPE had been provided. Most staff members were observed to carry out hand hygiene at appropriate times and to use PPE correctly. A small number of shortfalls in individual staff practice were discussed with the manager who agreed to address this through supervision.

5.2.4 Quality of Life for Patients

Discussion with patients confirmed that they were able to choose how they spent their day. Some patients told us they liked the privacy of their bedroom, but would enjoy going to the dining room for meals.

Christmas trees and many decorations were displayed throughout the home. Patients were observed enjoying listening to music, reading and watching TV, while others enjoyed doing arts and crafts or enjoying a visit from relatives. One patient said, "I enjoy listening to music", while another patient said, "I like to watch TV."

There was evidence that planned activities were being delivered for patients within the home. An activity planner displayed in the home confirmed varied activities were delivered which included balloon games, Christmas events, movies, drum class, armchair dance, hymns and one to one activities. Staff members said they did a variety of one to one and group activities to ensure all residents had some activity engagement.

Discussion with staff and review of care records relating to the provision of activities evidenced that a number of records were not consistently completed to reflect the activities delivered to all patients. The manager acknowledged that a more effective oversight from management was required and provided verbal confirmation of the action to be taken in order to address this. Given these assurances an area for improvement was not required and will be reviewed at a future inspection.

5.2.5 Management and Governance Arrangements

Staff members were aware of who the person in charge of the home was, their own role in the home and how to raise any concerns or worries about patients, care practices or the environment.

There has been a change in the management of the home since the last inspection. Miss Gabriela Ciurea has been the manager since 9 October 2023.

There was evidence that a system of auditing was in place to monitor the quality of care and other services provided to patients. The manager or delegated staff members completed regular audits to quality assure care delivery and service provision within the home. The quality of the audits was generally good. The manager agreed to review the completion IPC audit to ensure all aspects of staff practice were being observed.

Review of records confirmed that systems were in place for staff appraisal and supervision.

There was a system in place to manage complaints. There was evidence that the manager ensured that complaints were managed correctly and that good records were maintained. The manager told us that complaints were seen as an opportunity for the team to learn and improve.

Review of records evidenced that staff meetings were held on a regular basis. Minutes of these meetings were available. The manager agreed to diarise staff meetings for the coming year.

Staff commented positively about the manager and described them as supportive, approachable and always available for guidance. Discussion with the manager and staff confirmed that there were good working relationships between staff and management.

A review of the records of accidents and incidents which had occurred in the home found that these were well managed correctly and reported appropriately.

The home was visited each month by a representative of the registered provider to consult with patients, their relatives and staff and to examine all areas of the running of the home. The reports of these visits were completed in detail. These are available for review by patients, their representatives, the Trust and RQIA.

6.0 Quality Improvement Plan/Areas for Improvement

This inspection resulted in no areas for improvement being identified. Findings of the inspection were discussed with Miss Gabriela Ciurea, Manager, as part of the inspection process and can be found in the main body of the report.
